

March 27, 2020

After much deliberation it is with heavy hearts the Central Washington Junior Livestock Board of Directors has made the decision to cancel this year's Show. The decision did not come lightly and there have been several hours of discussion but it is the official recommendation of the CDC, Yakima County Health Department and Our Insurance Company. Unfortunately the final decision was made with our insurance company stating we would not be able to get coverage for the show due to the current circumstances and the Yakima Health District stating the lock down was until further notice. With the increasing concerns about COVID-19 virus we did not want to put anyone at risk by holding the event. We know full well the effort and investment you have put into your projects in both time and money. We are sincerely sorry for the inconvenience and hardship this may cause. We hope to see all of our exhibitors back next year for the 2021 Central Washington Junior Livestock Show. Please watch our website and social media for ways to support our exhibitors during this hard time.

Respectfully,
Central Washington Junior Livestock Show Board of Directors
